

KAMIKAZI IS A SCI-FI CONSPIRACY SET IN THE NEAR FUTURE, BEGINNING IN A SMALL 'WESTERN' CITY . . .

Krom is by day the leader of volunteers at a 'green world' charity – by night a part of a crack hacking crew. They've uncovered the "KAMIKAZi" conspiracy – a hidden dimension 'hardware trojan' within all engine management systems meaning all modern vehicles on the planet can be remote controlled or destroyed at whim.

Krom is gung-ho to destroy all the vehicles right away massively reducing pollution and demand for oil – "saving the planet one billion cars at a time".

He has a friend David who Krom pushes too far into a cycling accident – now comatosed in hospital. Krom expresses his violent impulses through tattoos, which cover his body and flood his mind.

While hacking into the KAMIKAZI system Krom is identified and is forced on the run, dissolving into a heaving metropolis where he must survive with nothing and create a new identity. Evading police, bounty hunters, anon agents all on his tail.

He resolves to hack back in to Kamikazi but is now not so sure what to do when he does so. The security encryption has been massively increased and he is not sure of success.

He meets a kindred spirit in "i" - a bubbly rich girl living a fantasy life, nerding out with radio and optical gadgetry, Krom falls in love with her.

He tells her everything and she begins scheming for herself. Unknowingly, the key to the new security encryption lies in i's radio and optical play through 'Polarisation' and Krom identifies this new solution to hacking in.

Will the police and other adversaries catch up and neutralise him ?

Does friend David recover from the accident ?

Who gets in and takes control of KAMIKAZI ?

What will happen if control is achieved ?

Will Krom push the BUTTON ?
